First Amendment to the U.S. Constitution

Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the Government for a redress of grievances.

Judge Murray Gurfein, Pentagon Papers case, June 17, 1971:

"The security of the Nation is not at the ramparts alone. Security also lies in the value of our free institutions. A cantankerous press, an obstinate press, a ubiquitous press must be suffered by those in authority in order to preserve the even greater values of freedom of expression and the right of the people to know."

WEST ISLAND —
A day late and many dollars short.

Beth David, Publisher

Ah well. It's dark at 5 p.m., the wood stove is a burning, and the Little Water Buggy needs to get covered up. Time or a new picture. Next week. I'll do that next week.

Meanwhile, we have a parade coming up! See page 3 for details on Fairhaven's Veterans Day parade, and Acushnet's ceremony, and New Bedford's parade.

I'll be there with my camera. I hope everyone who can will make an effort to get out there and line the route to show our veterans that we appreciate them.

Then they'll raise the big flag at the high school. Always a great sight.

The very next day we have a special Town Meeting, where you fellow citizens will vote on how to spend all our precious tax dollars.

If you can't make it, you can watch it on TV or online.

We have plenty of tidbits of news and happenings all throughout this week's issue. So be sure to look at each page. And be sure to notice who our advertisers are so you can tell them you saw their ads in the Neighb News.

Oh...I know what I forgot. Our annual shopping issue is coming up on 11/28. If you want to be part of our annual story that tells all our readers how they can use your products, then you need to get your space reservation in ASAP. Only display advertisers who are running at least for four consecutive weeks can get their company woven into the story for a special mention by name.

We have lots of other fun stuff in here, too. Fun and newsy at the same time. Todd Cox took a ride on Ladder One's ladder (see page 18).

Our cover story, the Run to Remember, happened this Sunday (see page 12), but the Father's Day Road Race also made the news this week, giving away more than $21,000 (see page 13).

So, enjoy this week's little miracle. It's time to put it to bed.

Until next week then...see ya,

Selectboard opts to let EPA handle Atlas Tack

By Beth David

Editor

The Fairhaven Selectboard received an update on the status of the Atlas Tack building at its meeting on Monday, 11/16/19. Town Counsel Thomas Crotty told the board that the Environmental Protection Agency had sent a letter to Atlas Tack months ago notifying the owners that they had to send notice on whether they intend to keep the property, sell it or maintain it.

Mr. Crotty told the board that Atlas Tack did not respond, leaving a couple of different options for the board to consider.

Whatever the decision, Mr. Crotty said that the town, EPA, and the Mass. Department of Environmental Protection would split any profits from the sale of the property.

Atlas Tack was a factory that manufactured wire tacks, steel nails, bolts, shoe eyelets, and similar items. Wastes containing cyanide and heavy metals were discharged onto the site. The property behind the building, where the discharge went, has been cleaned up by EPA to commercial standards.

The building is still standing, although in great disrepair, and does not have the same contamination as the rest of the property. The part of the property with the building on it may possibly be safe for residential use.

Mr. Crotty told the board that they could ask EPA to go to court on a contempt complaint because Atlas Tack did not respond, and ask the court to come up with a way to close out the liens. EPA, DEP, and the town all have liens on the property.

Mr. Crotty told the board that the court could appoint a receiver who would have the authority to dispose of the property. The town also has the option of pursuing a tax foreclosure on it.

Mr. Crotty said the receiver option was a "cleaner" process for the town. But, he cautioned, EPA moves very slowly.

Tax foreclosure has its own pitfalls, he said. It would still take at least two years, it might be difficult to find a buyer for a superfund property, the town needs to be willing to rezone the property to make it attractive to a developer, and if the town takes the property, they might be exposing the town to future liability.

I'm not even sure the vandals are going in there now [Thomas Crotty]

The area is zoned single family, now, but it may not be suitable for homes at all. If the front portion is suitable for residences, then it would probably only be economically viable for developers if they could build multi-family units there, or build another commercial building.

Mr. Crotty told the board that there are protections in place for the town if the cleanup EPA did starts to leach and cause problems, but, he said, those protections have not been "well tested" in the courts.

He recommended letting EPA take the next step, keeping in mind that it is not a priority for them, as much as it is for the town. He said the town can always opt to foreclose for taxes at a later date,

"This is a long term project," said

Mr. Crotty. "It's not [going to] go away in terms of getting rid of it."

Then he added: "It will eventually crumble."

Selectboard member Bob Espindola asked if they could split the property, so the town could maybe take down the building, which he called an "eyesore."

Mr. Crotty said the town already has the right to demolish the building because it is abandoned. The problem is cost, which he estimated at around $100,000. He said there might be some lumber inside the building that is salvageable, that might mitigate some of that cost, but not by much.

Mr. Crotty said that if the court appoints a receiver, then that person could subdivide it.

The town could demolish it now, but it would have to pay, and then add to the liens already on the property.

He noted that it is a fire hazard the way it is now. For some years, there was an effort to keep the fire suppression systems working, but, he said he believed that was no longer the case.

"There used to be a lot of vandalism there," said Mr. Crotty. "I'm not even sure the vandals are going in there now."

The board voted to have Town Administrator Mark Rees draft a letter to EPA asking them to pursue a remedy through the courts.

Selectboard Chairperson Charles K. Murphy Sr. suggested they notify the federal delegation to try to get some help.

Selectboard member Daniel Freitas did not attend the meeting.

The board also finished making its recommendations for the Special Town Meeting this Tuesday, 11/12, at Hastings Middle School at 7 p.m.

Quilters honor veterans with special quilts

Press Release

It was a lovely November day with all the outside fall colors, and inside the VFW Poirier Post it was abundant with patriotic colors of red, white and blue. Even the chairs that were placed in a horse shoe shape for the veterans that were being honored were covered with pillowcases made from patriotic colored material. As the veterans checked in, the room became filled with bustling chatter as the veterans introduced themselves to each other.

Shining Tides Quilt Guild Program Chairperson, Donna Peirce, organized the event. Approximately sixty (60) quilts were presented as a thank-you for their service to local veterans. The veterans were chosen by the guild members either personally or through another acquaintance. The whole idea of the event came to Donna as the Poirier Post is the new location for the guild's monthly day meeting.

The opening flag ceremony was performed by six (6) members of Fairhaven Boy Scout Troop 52. It was followed by the singing of the National Anthem by 13-year-old Jordan Young of Fairhaven. As Jordan began singing the veterans were brought to attention by veteran Pete Wilde and they all joined with her in singing. It was a very moving moment for all in attendance.

With the aid of the Boy Scouts in attendance and some young children, Aubrie Promfret, Liam Miranda and Reilly Young, each veteran was named and went up to receive their handmade quilt.

Each quilt was different in size and design. It was left up to the individual guild member as to what they would make. The only stipulation was that it be in red, white and blue. They were also different sizes. Some were made as a lap quilt, others a bit smaller to be hung on a wall and some large enough to be used to wrap up in on a cold evening.

Yes they are made to be used. Donna also briefly explained the sewing technique on each might be different. There are three layers involved in making a quilt and they are put together either with a long-arm machine, a domestic sewing machine or by hand.

After a closing ceremony by

A Murder is Announced

Your Theatre, Inc. director Robin Richard of New Bedford has cast several Southcoast area actors in the mystery thriller A Murder Is Announced by Agatha Christie and adapted by Leslie Darbon. This is the second major production of the 73rd Season.

The cast includes Lucy Bly, Gil Cardona-Erazo, Allison Dukes, Nick LeBlanc, Stephanie LeBlanc, Daniel Gabriel Sallom and Ian Vincent of New Bedford, Cheryl Day, Michele DeMary and John Softcheck of Fairhaven, Susan Wing Markson of Lakeville and Elena Murphy of Wareham.

The production is stage managed by Gil Cardona-Erazo, with costumes and settings by Mark P. Fuller, lighting design by Lawrence R. Houbre, Jr., all of New Bedford, and with sound design by William Smith of Dartmouth. Hawthorn Medical is a production supporter.

A Staple of Crime Fiction!

An announcement in the local paper states the time and place when a murder is to occur in Miss Blacklock's Victorian house. The victim is not one of the house's several occupants, but an unexpected and unknown visitor. What follows is a classic Christie puzzle of mixed motives, concealed identities, a second death, a determined inspector grimly following the twists and turns, and Miss Marple on hand to provide the final solution at some risk to herself in a dramatic confrontation.

Your Theatre, Inc. is grateful to our 73rd Season Sponsor, Bank5, for their eighth year of strong support for the arts. Hawthorn Medical is a Sponsor of this production.

The play opens on November 7, and runs for two Thursdays through Sundays. Performance dates are November 7, 8, 9, 10, and 14, 15, 16, 17, 2019. Curtain time is 7:30 p.m. for all performances except the 2:30 p.m. Sunday matinees. Performances are held at the wheelchair accessible Your Theatre, Inc. Playhouse, 136 Rivet St. (corner of County St.), New Bedford, at St. Martin's Episcopal Church complex. Free off-street parking entrance is on County Street.

Tickets are $18 general admission, $13 for season subscribers (three show minimum), and $15 for senior citizens, students, and military personnel. For further information call Your Theatre, Inc. at 508-993-0772, or send an email to info@yourtheatre.org. The theatre's web site is www.yourtheatre.org.

Early Learning

Screening of the film "No Small Matter," at New Bedford Whaling Museum, 18 Johnny Cake Hill, NB, on 5-7:30 p.m. FREE

"No Small Matter" is built from stories of real children, families, and teachers, illustrating the impact of high-quality early childhood experiences. We meet parents who are struggling to do their best for their kids, incredible teachers who model what early childhood classrooms should and could be like, and children learning and developing in real time. These positive, hopeful stories serve as motivational tools in both the film and the No Small Matter campaign: Change is necessary, critical, and attainable if we put our minds to it.

The film is also firmly grounded in science, opening up the "black box" of what's happening inside children's brains with exciting, stimulating

No Man Ever Would Have Been Treated So

Stages of Freedom presents Wanda "No Man Ever Would Have Been Treated So: The Trials of Eleanor Eldridge" Thursday, 11/14, at 5:30pm Old State House 150 Benefit Street Providence FREE! Space is limited! Registration Required at <https://form.jotform.com/92955338838171>

Wanda Schell as Eleanor Eldridge Eleanor Eldridge was born in 1785 in Warwick. A Black entrepreneur, she was skilled at spinning, arithmetic and weaving and became an accomplished weaver by age 14. At age 19 her father died and she used her skills and savvy to settle his estate.

She and her siblings started a business of weaving, washing and soap boiling. Money from that venture enabled Eldridge to buy land and build a house, which she rented out for $40 a year. She contracted herself out for a variety of work.

In 1831, at age 46 Eldridge suffered from a bout with typhus fever. While recuperating, a rumor circulated that she had died. Several months later she discovered that a deceitful opportunist had petitioned to have all her property sold to pay off a $240 loan she had acquired just before her illness. The properties were valued at more than $4,000 and were illegally auctioned off without family notification. Outraged friends charged that such theft would have never happened to a white man and certainly not a white woman. In 1837, she represented herself in court and was able to regain her property and expose the law officials who lied about the process. In 1838 Eldridge published "Memoirs of Eleanor Eldridge." The book is one of few narratives of free African Americans in the 1800's. It is believed that Eldridge died in 1865 at the age of 80.

Cleary's closes without warning

By Beth David
Editor

Cleary's Pub, which opened up in the old EJ's on Huttleston Avenue less than two years ago has closed.

A sign on the door greeted patrons on Monday, surprising both customers and employees.

The building is still owned by Cathy Melanson, former owner of EJ's and Emma Jean's. Ms. Melanson said the liquor license held by the restaurant will automatically revert back to her, according to the contract.

Ms. Melanson said it appeared that the business was not paying its bills and eventually just accumulated too much debt.

She said Cleary's was responsible for paying property taxes on the building, according to the terms of the lease, and that the taxes were also in arrears.

She said she had tried to work it out with the owner, but eventually had no choice but to issue an eviction notice.

Drew Tillett, who owned and ran Cleary's could not be reached for comment by press time.

Run to Remember honors LCpl Matthew Rodriguez

By Beth David
Editor

The third annual Lance Corporal Matthew R. Rodriguez Run To Remember 5K brought 158 runners and walkers to the streets of Fairhaven on a sunny Sunday, 11/3/19.

Fairhaven's own Shane McNamara, 16, took top honors, finishing the race in 18:19. Jason Foster, 24, also from Fairhaven, took second place overall in 22:16; and Christopher Cutter, 51, of East Bridgewater took third in 21:03. First woman over the line was Angela Mota, 25, of Somerset, coming in nine overall in 24:49.

The race began and ended at Fort Phoenix in Fairhaven, and included lots of fun, prizes, t-shirts and camaraderie.

In a sad, but noteworthy point of information, Paul Vidal and his wife of 47 years, Carol, ran/walked the race. Mr. Vidal is the pilot who was killed when his Cessna airplane crashed in Rural Cemetery in New Bedford the very next day, 11/4/19.

At the race, Paul, 74, and Carol, 69, told photographer Glenn C. Silva that they purposely crossed the finish line together, instead of vying to beat each other out (see photo this page).

The race benefits the LCpl Matthew Rodriguez Memorial Fund, which was started by Matthew's family after he was killed in Afghanistan on 12/11/13.

Matthew's lifelong dream was to become a Marine and he proudly served as a Combat Engineer with the Mobility Assault Company of the First Combat Engineer Battalion.

Matt was known for his infectious smile, which often got him into trouble. Learn more at www.thesmilingwarrior.org or email lauren@thesmilingwarrior.org.

Fairhaven Road Race donates $21,700 to local organizations

By Beth David
Editor

The Fairhaven Father's Day Road Race handed out checks at its annual luncheon on Sunday, 11/3/19, at the Fairhaven Senior Center. Donations to 35 local organizations totalled $21,700 this year.

Race founder Allen Days told the group of volunteers, friends, family, and organization representatives that the race has donated more than $250,000 over the past 45 years.

Mr. Days thanked the volunteers, and the board, which was only created a few years ago when he decided to step back a little. The race has to cap participants now, and routinely has more than 1,000, sometimes more than 2,000.

He also thanked the town and the various departments that help make the race possible, such as the police and fire, Fairhaven Emergency Management Agency, and public works department. The event begins and ends at Hastings Middle School, so the school department also got a big shout-out.

The Fairhaven EMA, fire department, and police department each received $2,000. In the past the money has been used for exercise equipment for the police department, and firefighter gear not covered by the budget for the fire department.

Fairhaven Dollars for Scholars received $1000 that will go directly for scholarships to high school seniors.

Anne Silvia, director of the Fairhaven Council on Aging, said they would use their $1,000 donation to install a new built-in water cooler, the kind that people can use to fill up a large water bottle. The senior center has no water cooler now, the two old-style "bubblers" have been out of order for years.

Ms. Silvia told the Neighb News that she had priced out a water cooler, and it came to just about $1,000. But there is no money in the budget for those kinds of things, she said.

Rick Seguin accepted $500 for the Greater New Bedford Marine Corps League, and made sure to let everyone know that they should be proud of Fairhaven. He said when the Marines held their convention in town last year, he got only good reports.

"We put on a really good convention," said Mr. Seguin, adding that people were very impressed with the history of the town, too, and have visited again because of how friendly people around town were. "You can

Oh...well, you don't see that every day

The bag that holds the winch chin for the gangway at Hoppy's Landing came loose in the last storm. When winds reach 50 miles per hour, the gangway is raised to protect it from being damaged. To re-attach the bag, the Fairhaven Fire Department helped out with Ladder 1, allowing Shellfish Warden/Deputy Todd Cox to reach the winch. Mr. Cox had to clean out a bird's nest, too, before re-attaching the bag with that holds the chain. High winds cause accident Toil and Trouble

Due to high winds on Halloween eve, a Salem Witch struck a Fairhaven Green Street home. No injuries were reported, quite magically so. The homeowner, Christopher Paiva stated that the incident was a series of "unfortunate events." When asked if the witch would ever return to Fairhaven, she squawked "Nevermore.....nevermore!" Scouting for food

It's that time of year when food pantries are struggling to keep food on the shelves. So the Scouts of Troop 52 collected food from homes in North Fairhaven. If you missed it and you'd like to donate to the pantry, you can drop food off at the bin at Stop & Shop in Fairhaven, the bin at the Millicent Library (Walnut Street entrance), or send a check to Shepherd's Pantry, P.O. Box 760, Fairhaven, MA 02719. The pantry operates from the Long Plain United Methodist Church, 1215 Main Street, Acushnet, and is open on Saturday mornings. Pantry Fund-raiser Going on Now

This letter is to remind people that the 17th annual Shepherd's Pantry holiday fundraiser is now going on.

The Shepherd's Pantry serves over 100 families each Saturday between the hours of 9 and 11 a.m. at the Long Plain United Methodist Church located at 1215 Main St. in Acushnet. However, at this time of year, the total amount of families who come by looking for help increases dramatically.

This particular fund raiser receives monetary donations that the pantry's dedicated volunteers use to restock the shelves of food items that are running low or are out of completely.

With the pantry's monthly expenditures that runs in the thousands of dollars in food purchases, you can clearly see the need for this yearly venture.

In all of the years that this tradition has been continuing during both

Thanksgiving and Christmas, thousands of dollars has been collected to augment the donated non-perishable food that is given out each week to the area's needy families.

If folks would like to help, please send your tax-deductible contributions to the Shepherd's Pantry, P.O. Box 760, Fairhaven, MA 02719.

Together, we can make a difference for the less fortunate.

Gerry Payette, Fund raiser coordinator

Ms. Gardner's presentation is part of The Climate Reality Project's "24 Hours of Reality: Truth in Action," (<https://www.climateRealityProject.org/blog/24-hours-reality-truth-action>) a global conversation on the truth of the climate crisis and efforts to address it. The Climate Reality Project was founded in 2011 by former Vice-President Al Gore.

Over the course of 24 hours, Gore will be joined by Ms. Gardner and other members of Climate Reality's global network of more than 20,000 Climate Reality Leaders to give updated versions of the slideshow made famous by "An Inconvenient Truth" (https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/An_Inconvenient_Truth).

The local sponsor for "The Climate Crisis and its Solutions" is the Unitarian Universalist Society of Fairhaven, through its South Coast Progressive Voices bimonthly speaker series. SCPV features experts in fields of broad public interest locally, regionally, and nationally.

The Unitarian Universalist Society of Fairhaven (<https://uufairhaven.org>) is committed to the pursuit of religious freedom and to building a world that is just, peaceable and sustainable.

animation and the voices of compelling scientists, physicians, and ECE experts. Drawing on the work of economists such as James Heckman, and the latest research in brain imaging and child development, we break down complicated scientific details into layman's terms, demystifying prevailing ideas that hinder our thinking about children's behavior, and paving the way for us all to see what children truly need to thrive. When it comes to understanding the incredible dynamism of how a child's mind develops, seeing is believing, and these illustrations drive home the critical nature of these early years.

No Small Matter is unique in the way it dives deep into the complicated science, history, and sociology that has brought our early care and education system to where it is today, but does so without sacrificing entertainment or emotional impact. From a comic cameo by Cookie Monster to the tearful testimonial of an amazing preschool teacher making poverty-level wages, the film has the power to move audiences in ways that a policy fact sheet or op-ed piece simply can't do."

Charles K. Murphy, who is also the Selectboard chair in Fairhaven, accepted $300 for the MO LIFE food pantry. Usually, they use the annual donation to buy turkeys for Thanksgiving, but this year, he said they will need it for a regular food shipment as well. The pantry missed a shipment from the Boston Food Bank due to a clerical error very recently.

Sherry Lopes, who accepted the donation for the Dollars for Scholars program and the Curtis Lopes Scholarship Fund, named for her late brother, told the group that the family has appreciated the support over the years. It helps to keep his memory alive, she said.

She said she recognizes all the hard work involved, and how much the race has given back to the community over the years.

"It's remarkable what you've done," said Ms. Lopes.
