FHS holds traditional graduation on the field

First Amendment to the U.S. Constitution

Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the Government for a redress of grievances.

Judge Murray Gurfein, Pentagon Papers case, June 17, 1971:

"The security of the Nation is not at the ramparts alone. Security also lies in the value of our free institutions. A cantankerous press, an obstinate press, a ubiquitous press must be suffered by those in authority in order to preserve the even greater values of freedom of expression and the right of the people to know."

WEST ISLAND —
A day late and many dollars short.

Wow. It's a been a whole year. A whole COVID-crazy year since the last graduation.

This is our special graduation issue. Thanks to the school, we are able to publish all the senior pictures and their class picture (see page 18 to get started).

We have lots of pictures this year. We didn't publish all the speeches in full because the speakers got to speak, in person, on the field. And I got to be there to hear them.

It was hot, though. Really hot. But I don't think anyone actually fell down. I didn't. My camera, however, took a dive. But, I digress.

This is supposed to be about the kids.

I just looked back at my brilliance from last year. Not bad actually. But this year, I'm going to go back to an old standard of mine, and keep it simple: Choose your friends wisely.

This year we saw a lot of big events that had people getting pulled along to do things they would not have done had they been alone or with a better group of friends.

Choose people who will stick by you but will also tell you when they think you're wrong. Be a good friend and you'll find good friends.

We have other stuff in here. The Selectboard meeting is on page 6. Oh...how I could go on! But I'll wait until next week. All I will say is that the young people today will surely not understand why our town leaders are making as big deal about flying the pride flag at town hall. These kids are more accepting of each other with each passing year. Yes, I know some still bully and make fun of each other. But most of them get it. They know this anti-gay foolishness is just that: Foolishness.

I hope you enjoy this special issue. It was fun being back on the field, no masks, and able to have a normal conversation again.

We managed to get a couple of pages of happenings in, too. See pages 25 & 37 for that.

Until next week then...see ya,

Selectboard denies LGBTQ flag & remote meeting participation

Jean Perry

Neighb News Correspondent

There will be no LGBTQ+ Pride flag flown at Town Hall, nor any other flag, declared Fairhaven Selectboard Chairperson Daniel Freitas on June 7 ahead of a 2-1 vote to deny School Committee Kyle Bueno's request to hang the rainbow-striped pride flag for the month of August. Selectboard member Bob Espindola's motion to approve the flag was not seconded.

Mr. Bueno shared some statistics about the vulnerability of the LGBTQ+ population, especially its younger members who face higher instances of bullying, depression, and suicide.

Noting how American culture has made great strides in awareness and acceptance, Mr. Bueno said, "Of course, there's still more work that has to be done."

He said flying the pride flag at Town Hall would show "that our town government fully supports and embraces diversity, it fully supports LGBTQ youth, individuals that live in our town ... and I feel, regardless of the visibility, if it impacts one person, if it impacts ten people, even allies who believe in full rights and protection of just anyone in general, that hanging this flag [at] Town Hall means something and it shows that government is for everyone — no matter who you are, no matter who you love, no matter where you come from — we show pride and we show that we care about our residents...."

Mr. Espindola felt flying the pride flag was especially important this year as the community emerges from a pandemic that has left a surge in depression, anxiety, and mental health issues in general. He remarked on the relative lateness of the request already one week into the nationally recognized Pride Month of June, but given that the flag policy all three current Selectboard members adopted in June 2020 requires a request 60-days before the requested flying period, Mr. Espindola noted that Pride Month in town would simply be postponed. However, Mr. Espindola was the only one at the table who would see it this way.

"The only thing I thought was different is having it in August instead of in June, regular Pride Month," said Selectboard member Keith Silvia.

"Everyone has a vote here, so we'll see what goes on."

Mr. Freitas said, "Every year we seem to go through this," and he continued, claiming, "and every year I've championed this. We didn't get it done this year in June."

Mr. Freitas further claimed to have received three requests last year to fly flags when the topic was still new and said he "begged the people not to do it because it was going to be something that was divisive.

"It seems to come up every year when this happens. I, personally, to me, it's a flag; if you want to fly it, that's up to you, but I have to look out for everybody in the town and look out for everybody's doing. I think we should have just had a flag policy that just said no flags. It would just [have] made our lives much simpler because, eventually, we're going to have to fly

I think we should have just had a flag policy that just said no flags. It would just [have] made our lives much simpler... [Daniel Freitas]

[flags] that people aren't going to like, and it's going to cause lots of problems around the town."

He offered to allow Mr. Bueno to fly the flag at Town Hall "for a couple of hours" one day in August, "But I'm going to be against flying the flag for the month ... and I'm going to be against any flag flying for a month.... This way, I don't have to deal with people coming up to me asking which flags they're going to fly — I'm going to be against any flag flying at all."

He called flying the Pride Flag "a slippery slope."

Mr. Espindola reminded Mr. Freitas that he and Mr. Silvia were both on the board when the flag policy was adopted, and after discussing Town Counsel Tom Crotty's several drafts across several meetings, the vote to adopt the policy passed unanimously.

He asked Mr. Freitas to share the examples of the flag requests he claimed he received, noting, "It's interesting that people's requests only went to you (Mr. Freitas)," since nothing was formally requested by the board.

Mr. Espindola asked Mr. Silvia if he had received any requests; Mr. Silvia claimed he got one in person.

Mr. Espindola emphasized that Mr. Bueno followed the procedure with his request and added, "I don't see why we would just make a blanket statement that we don't want any flags flown."

According to Mr. Freitas, he received requests to fly a Trump flag and the "Don't tread on me" Gadsden flag, which originated before the Revolutionary War and popularized during the emergence of the radical conservative "Tea Party" movement. He said a third flag request was "one I don't even want to get into," and if the board allows flags such as the Pride flag to fly at Town Hall, "It would seem we had to (fly those other three flags) at that point."

The flag policy specifies that the board would only grant requests to fly flags acknowledging proclamations by the federal or state government. President Joe Biden and Massachusetts Governor Charlie Baker issued proclamations for Pride Month within the last seven days. The town's policy also states that requests to fly flags supporting political candidates or parties would be denied, essentially negating Mr. Freitas's claim that the town would be forced to fly so-called divisive flags.

"I understand where both of you are coming from," said Mr. Silvia, but he would not second Mr. Espindola's motion to fly the pride flag.

Mr. Freitas offered Mr. Bueno the two hours in August to fly the pride flag, which Mr. Bueno respectfully declined. Mr. Espindola invited Mr. Bueno to his next Office Hour to have a conversation about Pride Month, which Mr. Bueno accepted.

From now on, Mr. Freitas insisted, "I'm going to say 'no' to flags. We're going to end up having to fly a flag that we don't want to. End of story."

Earlier in the discussion, Mr. Bueno shared some comments he received from members of the community thanking him for leading the effort to fly the pride flag at Town Hall. One 71-year-old unnamed resident told him, "I plan on being there (for the flag-raising) — and I remember when [I thought] I would never see this happen."

They won't see it in 2021, either.

Also during the meeting, Mr. Freitas and Mr. Silvia both rejected allowing for continued remote public participation in Selectboard meetings via Zoom, effective June 15. Mr. Espindola expressed his support for continuing the remote access to meetings indefinitely before the 2-1 vote to end Zoom access to meetings.

Mr. Espindola said that while he opposes allowing for board members to attend remotely, he supports keeping remote access open to residents.

"I'm totally opposite," said Mr. Silvia, preferring in-person participation only and going "back to the old way," as he put it.

"I'm going to be against the remote participation," agreed Mr. Freitas.

He said throughout the town's use of Zoom during the pandemic he has seen "the nastiest comments" from viewers flash onto the screen, and he said the board has had to endure interruptions from residents on Zoom and other untoward behaviors that Mr. Freitas said residents are more unlikely to display when meetings are held in-person only.

"I've seen some nasty stuff," said Mr. Freitas. "People can say what they want because they don't have to look you in the eye...."

Mr. Espindola argued that, at a minimum, remote access should be allowed until the town lifts its face mask requirement for visitors to Town Hall.

Director of Cable Access Derek Frates said it has become increasingly difficult to facilitate hybrid in-person/remote meetings due to logistics and staff shortages; however, he said that he has already generated links to Zoom meetings throughout June.

Mr. Silvia motioned to end public access to meetings via Zoom on June 15, seconded by Mr. Freitas. It passed 2-1, with Mr. Espindola opposed.

In other business, members of the Rogers Re-Use Committee and representatives from the Southeastern Massachusetts Educational Collaborative (SMEC) discussed the potential renovation/lease of the 1950s wing of Rogers School ahead of an executive session to negotiate a leasing agreement.

"I am for this project," Mr. Freitas declared. He said he had received 15 emails against the project and 10 in favor.

Noting the ongoing mothballing effort of the old school wing, "If SMEC wants to use it and we can come to an agreement with them, then I'm for it."

He said he wants to avoid a potential $2-3 million demolition of the newer wing and possibly use the main school building as a town hall annex, and lamented a $50-60 million price tag for a new public safety building he said would include other town offices.

"I think we should start thinking about something along those lines," said Mr. Freitas.

Mr. Espindola, still cautious in his approach to the proposal, cited a June 2-3 thread of emails between him and Planning Board member Wayne Hayward. In that thread, Mr. Hayward accuses the board of "deviating from sound financial planning and prior Town Meeting wishes" by continuing town ownership of the old school. This latest proposal also includes an approximately $700,000 cost-sharing of the renovation still under negotiation.

Mr. Hayward's argument further included, "This proposal is also a sweetheart deal for one side. The abutters on the committee. You lose money. Every year. The monetary risks of being a landlord to a Rogers school full of elementary children is why the school was abandoned in the first place by cooler heads."

He further argued that a 10-year lease means "no developer will ever want to pursue this property, even though we are in a heated real estate market condition."

Mr. Espindola asked Director of Planning & Economic Development Paul Foley to chime in remotely in light of the recent development in federal stimulus money that could provide grants toward a project that would focus mainly on the historic portion of Rogers School. Mr. Espindola said he worried that a lease of the new wing to SMEC would indefinitely obstruct the possibilities.

"It's time to think about what the future looks like," said Mr. Espindola. "I think this is a good project," but he urged the board to hear Mr. Foley's input before finalizing a lease deal.

According to Mr. Foley, the available grants would not apply to a municipal building like a town hall annex, but more like a non-profit use of the old school. Regardless, in order to apply for grants that may apply, the town needs to be specific in what it wants to do.

Rogers Re-Use Committee member Susan Loo said the mothballing would preserve the main building for about 10 years. Committee member Doug Brady emphasized that the town would be collecting rent from SMEC and the town's investment would be returned through it. He cautioned against putting up roadblocks to the proposal that the committee has been working on since April and recalled the growing line of failed or rejected proposals leading to now.

Mr. Espindola said the town should still focus on the SMEC project but consider the potential risks involved. Mr. Freitas said he wished the new information on federal grants was known to him beforehand.

"I'm supporting this," said Mr. Freitas.

"I'm supporting it 100 percent," said Mr. Silvia.

Mr. Espindola said he would support it if risks are mitigated.

In other business, the board accepted the gift of a 5.57-acre parcel of saltmarsh at Boys Creek, formerly Eversource property, which will be under the care and control of the Fairhaven Conservation Commission. The Buzzards Bay Coalition facilitated the acquisition. Allen Decker of the BBC went before the board and said the acquisition was part of a

Memorial Day events held belatedly

By Beth David
Editor

Last week's storm caused the Fairhaven Lions Club to ditch their flag-raising and flag-lowering ceremonies, but that did not stop them from honoring the fallen. They just did it a week later.

On Sunday, 6/6, just a couple of hours ahead of the high school graduation, the Lions Club raised the big flag at the high school. Before that, at 8 a.m., they raised a special flag with a dedication to Angelo F. Puente who passed away on March 12, 2016. Angelo was a WWII army veteran serving with the 24th Coast Artillery Harbor Defense as well as an active member and past president of the Fairhaven Lions. His military flag was raised at the "Highway Memorial" on Main Street and I-95 in a brief ceremony marking Angelo's commitment to his country and many civic organizations in town.

Later on Sunday, at 4 p.m. the Lions retired Mr. Puente's flag in a formal service and final tribute to him.

At 6 p.m., they Lions returned to the high school, lowered the big flag and replaced it with a new flag in memory of Mr. Puente. Guest speakers included Bill Moniz, current president of the Fairhaven Lions Club, and Bill Kligel, incoming president.

At the raising of the big flag at the high school, Ted Silva said they may have had to change the date, but nothing would stop them from having Memorial Day.

"God Bless America" played as they lowered the flag, and Emma Whynacht sang "The Star Spangled Banner" when the big flag was raised.

The Big Flag was a gift from the Fairhaven Alumni Association, and members of the community paid $25 for a star to pay for it. It is 50x30 feet and makes a spectacular sight in front of Fairhaven High School's original 1906 Elizabethan-influenced building designed by Charles Brigham.

ABOVE: The 50x30-foot "Big Flag" ripples in the breeze after being raised in front of Fairhaven High School on 6/6/21 in a belated Memorial Day Ceremony that was also on graduation day. Acushnet standoff ends peacefully

By Beth David
Editor

The Acushnet Police Department notified the public on social media at about 9:30 a.m. on Monday, 6/7, that a standoff situation was in progress on Oliveira Avenue. A subject had barricaded himself inside the house by himself, no hostages.

At about 1:20 p.m., the department posted on its Facebook page that the situation had been resolved peacefully.

In a press availability after the incident, Acushnet Police Chief Christopher Richmond said that the department received at least two 911 calls at 5:45 a.m. He said it was a domestic argument and that the department received calls from “both sides of the argument.”

According to the chief, one party was outside when police arrived. The other person approached officers, but then went back into the house.

Chief Richmond said the man who retreated back into the house was making threats.

The police “secured the perimeter and called in the necessary assets to assist us,” he said.

They received mutual aid from Fairhaven and Rochester, and also the state police.

He noted that years ago, the police may have entered the house sooner, but police departments have learned that “time is our ally.”

He said they took time to talk to the subject involved and give him the time he needed to come out voluntarily.

Elements of the SWAT team were on standby because they are trained more in less lethal munitions, and they work with a negotiation team.

Word got around that the man had a knife. Chief Richmond said he was holding a knife at one point. He never actually threatened anyone with it, said the chief, but he was “holding it in a menacing manner,” but eventually put it down.

Chief Richmond said the department was still interviewing the other party involved and had not determined if charges would be brought, or what they would be.

“The main thing is we want to make sure this gentleman gets the help he needs and we’ll go from there,” said Chief Richmond, noting that “he ultimately came out on his own.”

Although these kinds of incidents do not happen often in Acushnet, the chief noted that mental health issues have been on the rise in the past year due to the pandemic.

“Unfortunately, they’re becoming more and more common,” he said.

He would not answer if the person was “known to” police, saying he was not comfortable answering the question at that time.

He did confirm that both people are residents of the house.

The man did not make any “demands” as such, said the chief, but they did provide him with iced coffee and other things to keep the relationship going.

The party involved was transported for evaluation, said Chief Richmond, but would not release his name.

FHS Cheerleader Beats Cancer, Inspires School Community

Submitted

In May of 2020, as many Fairhaven High School (FHS) students were getting ready to transition into the summer after a trying year of remote learning and missing out on traditional social events, Cyriss Fareas, a junior at the time, was getting ready to fight for her life.

On May 26, 2020, Fareas was diagnosed with cancer, Stage 2 Hodgkin's Lymphoma. While her cancer diagnosis came at the end of the school year, with just a few weeks left, Fareas continued to work with FHS teachers to finish out her junior year, while being treated at Boston Children's Hospital for cancer.

FHS Athletic Director and Science teacher, Chris Carrig, said "Cyriss embodies what it means to be tough. She fights her battles, and stays committed to her teammates. She has been an inspiration to our whole school community."

The two-season cheerleader fought for two months through all of the changes cancer and chemo brought her, and on July 24, 2020, got the news that she beat the disease.

At the last FHS football game, Fareas was recognized alongside her cheer teammates and coaches for her courageous fight.

"It has been incredible to watch

I want to become an oncology nurse that helps children fighting cancer because I know what it's like to be in that chemo chair not knowing if you're going to survive or not.

Cyriss's journey from the very beginning. She has remained so strong, positive and has been a true inspiration. She showed cancer that it picked the wrong girl. I couldn't be more proud to be her coach. I look forward to seeing her put this horrible disease behind her and continue to grow into an amazing woman," said FHS cheer coach and former FHS cheerleader, Hannah Mattos.

Fareas is now eight months cancer-free and her fighting spirit continues to inspire her teammates, coaches, and school community on and off the field. She was celebrated again during Senior Night at the Fairhaven football game on Friday, 4/9/21 at the Paul Walsh Stadium.

After graduation, Fareas plans to attend a four-year college and go into nursing school.

"I want to become an oncology nurse that helps children fighting cancer because I know what it's like to be in that chemo chair not knowing if you're going to survive or not. I know what those children are feeling and thinking, and with all this experience I know that this type of nursing will help me as a person share what that child is feeling to others. After that, I plan to work at Dana Farber Cancer Institute in Boston, and raise a family here in my hometown of Fairhaven."

Dear Frankie

Zoom Calls?

Dear Frankie,
Before the town closed the dog park because of Covid, I went to the dog park every day. The social isolation was devastating for many of us who were regulars.

Last month, the mother of King, a newcomer to the park, called to invite a few of my park buddies and me to be on a weekly doggie Zoom call. I was thrilled and jumped at the chance. On the first call, everyone introduced themselves because King, a German Shepherd, was a newcomer to many in our group. Missy started the conversation; King immediately interrupted and then went off on a tangent. Archie responded to King, and the conversation went on from there.

I felt terrible for Missy, so when I could get a word in edgewise, I asked, "What were you saying earlier, Missy?"

She responded angrily, "How can I remember?"

In response, King said, "Well, it couldn't have been that important."

On the next call, King started the discussion. Scooter asked King for a source to back up what he was saying.

King shouted, "Who needs a source? It's a known fact, dummy."

During the encounter between King and Scooter, Missy screamed out on the top of her lungs, "Shut Up King."

At that point, my mom got on the call and reviewed the rules for participating in a Zoom call. On the next call, King got into an argument with Barney. The next day, several of the old gang had a conference call. We all agreed we wanted the Zoom calls to continue, but we weren't sure what to do about King? Any suggestions would be appreciated.

Sincerely, Roscoe

Dear Roscoe,

It is challenging to be in meetings when someone dominates and isn't open to another dog's opinion.

But I'm surprised that your group is still on the fence on how to deal with King. He has been disruptive on three Zoom calls. How much bad behavior do you guys need to blackball him? In baseball, I think the expression is three strikes, and you are out. However, if the group wants to bend over backward and give him another chance, you might look to the committee for the presidential debates to see how they dealt with similar behavior. If you recall, they told the candidates they would mute their microphones if they were rude, interrupted, or talked beyond their time limit.

If you don't have the technology to mute a speaker, another option might be a group intervention. An intervention requires each dog to tell King how uncomfortable his behavior makes them feel.

King also needs to be informed that he will not be allowed to participate if he breaks a rule on future calls. If he is up to his ole tricks on a future call, as I suspect he will be, a vote should be taken on whether he should be allowed to continue. It doesn't appear King will get many to vote in his favor, and that will be the end of King.

I must commend you and your fellow zoomers for all the efforts you made on King's behalf. I'm not sure I would have put up with him for as long as all of you did. So, kudos for giving King every chance to right his wrongs.

Best, Frankie

Tree Warden update

see them please thank them for their work. I do every day.

I have two professional landscape architects who are volunteering their time to help me locate and choose species for tree plantings around town. We hope to get 16 more trees planted before the end of June. Then the weather dries out and planting becomes a bigger risk due to no rain for the new trees. For logistical purposes we have focused on the center of town. Next season we hope to get 50 trees in and I hope to place them all around town. If you have a location you would like to see a tree please send me an email at dcollasius@fairhaven-ma.gov or call at 508 922 1222. Please leave your name, address, phone number and planting location. And if you can take on the task of watering the new planting two times a week 5 gallons each time.

Lastly for now, I am teaming up with several Eversource Foresters who are canvassing two of the 5 Eversource circuits in town. They are looking for dead, dying, problem trees that they deem a hazard to peoples, property, wires, etc. They will be putting a small blue dot on the street side of the tree base that they recommend for removal. If you see a tree with a blue dot you feel should stay please contact me. The dot is not written in stone and in some cases may be altered and the tree given a reprieve. Please note we are not taking out any healthy trees that do not pose a significant hazard. Teaming up with Eversource is saving the town tens of thousands of dollars.

We are doing a lot. A lot more needs to be done.

Thanks for your support,

*Don C. Colasius,
Fairhaven Tree Warden

Press Release

Greetings from the Fairhaven Tree Department. A lot has been going on and a lot more will follow.

I have responded to 73 requests for service. If you have made a request for service and not heard from me please reach out again. I am trying to keep up but some of you may have slipped thru the proverbial cracks. Sorry about that.

I have hired two professional tree laborers who have been able to attend to 5 emergency calls for service and 29 normal service requests. Some of the requests require the better part of a day and so some days we get to 4-6, and some days 2. The guys are currently working 2 days per week, Monday and Tuesday. They are sacrificing really good pay on those two days to help out the town whose pay of $17 per hour does not even come close to what they normally make. So if you

FHS holds traditional graduation ceremony

By Beth David
Editor

After last year's drive-through ceremony to hand out diplomas to seniors, this year's traditional ceremony was a welcome return, albeit with a couple of changes. The ceremony took place on the traditional first Sunday in June, 6/6, but at 11 a.m. instead of 2 p.m.

School officials did not exactly give a reason for the change, but since the weather was forecast to be close to 90 degrees, no one complained about the earlier time slot. It was still extremely hot out on the field, but another change also shortened the ceremony: The reading of individual scholarships was done at an earlier date and recorded, instead of being done at the ceremony.

This year, 186 seniors graduated, and the theme of the day was the challenge posed by the COVID-19 pandemic and the disruptions to the school year.

Last year, school buildings shut down in March, forcing seniors to lose the last couple of months of their final year, the prom and the traditional ceremony.

This year, school was mostly remote, with hybrid models, and students finally getting back into the classroom in April.

Sports also took a hit, with the seasons at all different times, abbreviated, and COVID protocols in place.

Through it all, the students continued on.

"We are thankful for your class, grace, resilience and we are beyond proud of you," reads a statement in the program book. "What you have endured in the last year and a half and how you have handled adversity has allowed your character to shine. Your fortitude has proven that you can achieve your goals in the most challenging of times. It is our hope that this year has taught you that you can endure anything, that you are resilient. You are inspirational. We are so proud of all of you. Congratulations and best of luck in your future endeavors!"

In his speech to his classmates,

Salutatorian Chase Pinette said he never could have imagined making a speech in front of such a large crowd.

"Time is a living thing, yet very abstract," said Mr. Pinette. "It's an inanimate object that animates our lives into motion. As time progresses, we progress. We learn. We create. We make memories."

He quoted a "wise man" he knows, Herbert Botelho, who said "The body ages, not time. All that matters is what you do with the time."

And that means spending time doing what makes you happy, and doing what you love in life. He wished for his fellow graduates that they end up doing something they love, even if they do not know what that is yet.

"But all that matters is that you spend your time doing what you love, and I believe to the fullest extent that you will be happy with the end result if you choose the right path," said Mr. Pinette. "And of course, having lots of fun along the way."

He said he believed he spent his time well in high school, despite embarrassing moments.

He invited the class to reflect on their time at FHS.

"Did you make mistakes, but learn and grow from them," he asked. "And most importantly, did you spend your time wisely?"

He ended by thanking those who helped him along the way.

Valedictorian Sean Brown told his fellow graduates that he researched some speeches and found one by a valedictorian who regretted stressing out over all his difficult classes. Mr. Brown, however, said he was proud of standing in front of them because he did not regret any of the work he put in over the last four years. He said he would not change anything.

He quoted Albert Einstein saying that life is like riding a bicycle: "To keep your balance, you must keep moving."

"During high school, my life was always moving between school, sports, having a job, and creating countless memories with my friends, and I don't regret any of it," said Mr. Brown. "My lesson for you all is to balance your life with things that make you happy and to always keep moving forward.”

He said most of them are ready to move on, but he could not help looking back at all the memories they have made. Freshman year it seemed that graduation would never come, and now, “high school has flown by.”

Mr. Brown said being from Acushnet he had many high schools to choose from, and he will always look back at his decision to choose FHS as one of the best he ever made.

“I think we will all remember Fairhaven for the crazy spirit weeks, homecomings, sporting events, and our prom that we were finally able to have, but most importantly, I’ll remember Fairhaven for the amazing teachers and great friendships that I have made over the years,” said Mr. Brown, and he launched into a list of events from various clubs. “It’s sad to me to think that making memories with this class could all end today, but I am glad that I made the most of it while I had the chance.”

He told them he had faith that they would “do great in life” because of community support, and told them to use the strengths they have to be successful in life.

Mr. Brown wished them luck as they go off to college and living on their own for the first time, but told them not to be afraid to ask for help and not to forget the people who helped them along the way.

Superintendent Robert N. Baldwin told the graduates that he had a saying on his wall: Today is the tomorrow you worried about yesterday and all is well.

“All is really well for each and every one of you,” he said. “And we deserve this day.”

He told them they learned to adapt during the pandemic and “roll with the issues.”

None of it happens without the faculty, staff and friends who had a “mindset for growth.”

Dr. Baldwin said the school community worked to put students first, and that the seniors led that.

He gave them three messages: one from a coach, one from a comedian, and one from his mom.

The coach said “do right,” and everything will fall into place.

His mom says, “Be nice, be kind. Just be nice.”

Being nice works, doing the right thing works, said Dr. Baldwin.

And comedian Jerry Seinfeld explained his success by saying, “Just work. Just do the hard work.”

“Do right, be nice, and just work,” said Dr.

Baldwin. “And everything will fall into place for you.”

He also quoted from a Dan Fogelberg song, “Part of the Plan.” When things seem not to be going right, when life is difficult, it’s all part of the plan.

“Love when you can; Cry when you have to; Be who you must; That’s a part of the plan,” read Dr. Baldwin. “Await your arrival; With simple survival; And one day we’ll all understand.”

He read off the last phone message, telling them they did not have to arrive at school anymore.

“Be nice, do right, just work, and be well,” said Dr. Baldwin.

In the closing remarks, Principal Andy Kulak told graduates they were now alumni of “this remarkable high school.”

He said he did not want to talk about COVID 19 because they are all ready to move past it, but it goes with the point he wanted to make. He said 15 months ago they learned that life can change in a day. COVID, with all its new terminology, became part of everyday life.

“As students, some of you struggled at times through all this, and some of you flourished, but all of you sitting on this field were resilient and persevered through it all to make it to this point,” said Mr. Kulak.

He said everyone can agree that education over that time was hard for everyone. Everything was different.

“But Education is not always about the details you learn in class. Honestly, a lot of those details you’re not going to remember,” said Mr. Kulak. “The function of education and the process of learning is much more than the details.”

He quoted Nelson Mandela: “Education is the most powerful weapon which you can use to change the world.”

“So, what I ask you to take away as graduates is that not only were you able to adjust and adapt to a world that can change in a day, you have proved, through the collective sum of your education, that you have learned what it takes to change the world. That’s what you are now equipped to do. Be proud of that amazing achievement,” said Mr. Kulak. “So, as you move on to whatever path you take, remember to be well, be safe, and know that you already have what it takes to change the world.”

The program also included “The Halls of Ivy” by the FHS Concert Choir; The class song, “Lean On Me,” by Bill Withers; and the presentation of the class gifts, which were all monetary donations this year.

In her vespers message, given at Fort Phoenix the morning of graduation (and provided to the Neighb News in writing), class president Nina Medeiros told her classmates not to let fear stop them from doing what they want to do. They have shown what it is to be resilient and persistent, she said.

“Being able to graduate during times like these shows what kind of person you are and how much you truly care about your future. This year, we truly faced what it means to be an adult,” said Ms. Medeiros, noting that many of them had jobs in addition to school.

The year taught them they could face the unexpected and not let it push them back.

“In this time before we graduate, let’s not think about what we are leaving behind but rather what is ahead of us. Do not think of this as an ending, but rather the beginning of a new chapter,” she said, but also remember the good memories.

“I want you to always remember that it is okay to be afraid of what is ahead and of the unknowns. It’s human to not want to dare put yourselves in a position to be heartbroken or face failure,” said Ms. Medeiros, but said failures teach them lessons to “make us who we are.”

She implored them not to let fear set them back, but “push you to take action towards achieving your goals.”

There will be bumps along the journey, she said, but they will get to their destination. And the bumps will leave them with the knowledge of how to go about achieving their goals.

“And just like Main Street in Acushnet, these bumps and potholes teach you how to go about the street smoother the second time around,” said Ms. Medeiros. “These bumps along your journey will stick with you and help you make better choices whether it be in that goal or a different goal. So don’t let fear dictate your path, let your desire to achieve your goals decide your end results.”

“Class of 2021, it is now our time to show the world what it means to be a Blue Devil; to be resilient and relentless in achieving our goals. I cannot wait to see what you all achieve in the future; I know you will all do great things,” said Ms. Medeiros. “Thank you all for making these past four years ones to remember. I am proud to have been a member of the Class of 2021.”

Fri., 10 a.m., through September, Fort Phoenix, south end of Fort St., Fairhaven, MA. Presentations take place near the cannons. WEATHER PERMITTING

Wearing face coverings for public safety is optional. Social distancing is suggested.

Hear tales of pirates, Revolutionary War era privateers, and historical Fort Phoenix, presented by Greybeard, an 18th century gunner from the privateer sloop Broome, Abigail Black, a ship's doctor who grows herbal remedies in her village garden when she's not at sea, and Caleb the Powder Monkey, a lad who knows how to load and fire a cannon.

Learn which pirate lore is really just myth based on fiction and what stories are true.

This fun interactive presentation includes a demonstration firing of a black powder swivel cannon, a demonstration of early medical practices and more. While being fun and informative for adults, it is also appropriate for children, particularly age seven and up.

NB Voc-Tech holds graduation and Hollywood night

Greater New Bedford Regional Vocational Technical High School held its graduation outside on the athletic field on Saturday, 6/5/21. Some semblances of the pandemic life enroached: graduations could only have four guests, and chairs were spaced out on the field. More than 500 students graduated. One of the top ten graduates, Sabrina Arruda, is from Fairhaven. ABOVE: Graduates and family members of Greater New Bedford Regional Vocational Technical High School assemble on the Jeffrey E. Riley Football Stadium for the graduation ceremony on Saturday, 6/5/21, with some lingering restrictions due to COVID 19. Photo from GNB Voc-Tech Facebook page.

On Friday, 5/28/21, Greater New Bedford Regional Vocational Technical High School held an AMC Hollywood Night at AMC in Dartmouth for the Class of 2021 instead of a prom. Due to CDC guidelines and restrictions, a traditional prom would not be feasible due to the size of the senior class. Students voted on an AMC Hollywood Night rather than a prom.
