No Kings protest draws more than 1,500+

First Amendment to the U.S. Constitution

Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the Government for a redress of grievances.

Judge Murray Gurfein, Pentagon Papers case, June 17, 1971:

"The security of the Nation is not at the ramparts alone. Security also lies in the value of our free institutions. A cantankerous press, an obstinate press, a ubiquitous press must be suffered by those in authority in order to preserve the even greater values of freedom of expression and the right of the people to know."

WEST ISLAND —
A day late and many dollars short.

We had a political assassination in this country last week. A state lawmaker in Minnesota and her husband were killed. The same shooter tried to kill another lawmaker and his wife, but they survived the attempt.

Meanwhile, the Big Buffoon won't even call Minnesota Governor, Tim Walz, because the Big Buffoon doesn't like the governor who was the VP on the ticket for the Democrats.

It's sickening. Absolutely sickening.

But I'm more upset by the responses of some people I know. People who instantly jump to conclusions about the shooter being a Democrat or Marxist, or blaming the victim because of how she acted in front of a camera once.

Just stop that. Just stop it. It does not matter. None of that matters. What matters is that we have too many people in this country who think it is okay to kill people to get their way.

The calls for all liberals to be killed or deported are not funny. Not when your guy is plucking people off the streets for no reason and locking them up.

Why do you think that is okay?

The No Kings demonstrations across the country drew millions. And Fairhaven did its part.

So many Trump supporters are trashing the effort, saying Trump won, so suck it up.

No, we will not. This isn't about disagreeing with some policy changes or spending issues. This is about the very thing that makes us a great country: Our adherence to the rule of law.

And it's gone. The trust is gone.

I do not know what it will take to get it back.

But I know where it starts: With protests in the streets. You may believe that nothing comes from them, but I contend that nothing happens without them.

We need to keep getting out there.

We cannot pretend that any of this is normal.

He won an election, not a coronation.

Some of you say this is what you voted for: Masked men plucking people off the streets and locking them up with no warrants, no charges, no access to attorneys. They even did it to a sitting US Senator.

I do not understand you. I do not understand what you every thought our country was about. But I understand how Germany happened, now.

You're in a cult. You have TDS: Trump Devotion Syndrome. You need help.

Until next week then, see ya

Acushnet TM restores some school funding

By Beth David
Editor

There was lots of robust discussion as Acushnet voters forced some shuffling around of the budget proposed at the annual Town Meeting on Monday, 6/16/25, after amendments from the floor upset the delicate balance created by town officials.

Town Meeting was determined to replace $155,000 to the school budget so the district would not have to lay off two teachers. The department will still, however have eight fewer staff members due to retirements, and some people leaving, positions the department will not fill.

TM voters focused on rehiring two teachers or paraprofessionals who have been laid off.

Donny Williams spoke forcefully, saying he did not want to hear that the town was "broke," when everyone could see they have plenty to spend from certified Free Cash and a healthy stabilization fund, which is essentially the town's savings account/rainy day fund.

When town officials explained that only recurring revenue should be used for operating expenses, Mr. Williams said he understood, but he believed a "stop gap" measure was the answer for this year. He said they would then have time to figure it out.

Mr. Williams said they all just witnessed a "verbal argument" between the Finance Committee and the School Committee.

"It is glaringly apparent this is not about $155,000," said Mr. Williams. "We're not broke. We have four million in savings, we have 1.2 million in free cash."

SB member Bob Hinckley said that town officials never said the town was "broke."

"If we solve it tonight, it does not solve it for next year," said Mr. Hinckley,

"I fully acknowledge we're paying the Comcast bill out of the savings account," said Mr. Williams. "I get that."

Before they got to the operating budget, voters turned down the Department of Public Works request for a street sweeper for $275,000, with Mr. Williams leading the charge, saying that the money, from free cash, could be used for the school department.

And Town Meeting did add $155K from Free Cash to supplement the School Department budget, bringing that total to $19,933,167.

But, Selectboard member Kevin Gaspar would not be deterred. He was determined to get the street sweeper for the DPW and not want to take any money from the stabilization fund.

The town went back and forth a bit and had some interesting procedural moves, needing to reconsider some votes and amend motions.

In the end, the town added the $155K to the school department; then went back and took $50,000 from its original $100K for the OPEB Trust Account; rescinded the vote to put $100K into the stabilization fund, putting nothing in that account this year; and funded the street sweeper at $270K instead of $275K, equaling $155K for the school department.

The final number for the operating budget was then back to the original $36,988,765.

This free, family-friendly event honors Pride Month with a joyful gathering that celebrates love, equality, and the power of community.

unity. Then, stay for an evening filled with live entertainment, delicious food trucks, a beer/liquor tent, and activities designed to bring people together across generations.

Fairhaven's Got Pride is more than a celebration — it's a statement of inclusion, belonging, and family in all its forms. It's also a powerful reminder of why it matters that LGBTQ+ voices are seen, heard, and celebrated.

Millicent Library Slate Roof Maintenance

Press Release

As part of the Millicent Library's ongoing commitment to preserving Fairhaven's architectural treasure, the library has contracted Greenwood Industries to conduct biannual inspections of the library's slate roof.

During a recent inspection, approximately two dozen slate tiles were found to be broken, slipped, or missing. Additionally, a leak in the library's tower was identified following recent storms.

This tower leak does not appear to be related to the recent chimney repair and restoration project. All areas previously affected by that project remain dry and free of water infiltration.

Pinpointing the exact source of roof leaks can be challenging, but this particular leak appears to be associated with a roof valley that has damaged and missing tiles, as well as an adjacent gutter system that handles drainage. To safely access and repair this area, scaffolding will be installed, allowing crews to replace tiles and conduct a more thorough assessment.

Repair work is expected to wrap up by the end of June, weather permitting.

The Millicent Library Board of Trustees remains dedicated to the stewardship and preservation of this historic building and extends its gratitude to the community for its continued support.

Randy Durrigan recognized by state legislature

Press Release

State Representative Mark Sylvia (D-Fairhaven) proudly honored Randall Durrigan of Fairhaven on 5/22/25 at the first-ever Military Appreciation Day ceremony held in the Massachusetts State House's historic House Chamber.

Military Appreciation Day was created by the Healey-Driscoll Administration to establish a lasting annual tradition that brings together local, state, and community leaders to honor those whose service might otherwise go unrecognized. Each legislator was invited to nominate a member of their local military community — whether a veteran, active-duty service member, National Guard, Reservist, or military spouse — to be honored during the ceremony. More than 125 individuals who exemplify commitment to service and community were recognized from districts across Massachusetts.

"I'm proud to recognize Randy Durrigan for his service to our country in the U.S. Air Force from 1962 to 1966, for his involvement in local government and veterans organizations and for his dedication to helping his fellow veterans as a Veterans Service Officer," said Rep.

Sylvia. "His contributions reflect the strength, resilience, and dedication of our local military community, and I'm honored to celebrate him at this statewide event."

The ceremony featured remarks from Governor Maura Healey, Lieutenant Governor Kim Driscoll, Veterans Services Secretary Jon Santiago, Senate President Karen Spilka, and a keynote address by General Joseph F. Dunford, Jr. (Ret.), former Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and 36th Commandant of the U.S. Marine Corps.

"This event is about gratitude," said Governor Maura Healey. "We're here to honor the everyday heroes — veterans, active-duty service members, and military families — whose courage, strength, and commitment continue to shape our state for the better. Military Appreciation Day is now a Massachusetts tradition and one we'll proudly carry forward each year."

"Massachusetts is home to one of the most vibrant, committed military communities in the country," said Lieutenant Governor Kim Driscoll. "This day is about uplifting the stories and contributions of those who have sacrificed so much and showing that their service will never go unrecognized."

"Every day, I meet veterans and military families who continue to lead, serve, and inspire," said Secretary Jon Santiago. "As we approach Memorial Day, and during a month dedicated to honoring our military, this event reflects what makes Massachusetts special: a deep respect for service, and a commitment to those who wear the uniform — and those who stand beside them."

"My father's service in the United States Army defined his life and deeply shaped my own — and I know the same holds true for thousands of service members and their families across Massachusetts," said Senate President Karen E. Spilka (D-Ashland). "It is a privilege to honor those residents who have dedicated themselves to serving our country, and I am profoundly grateful for their unwavering commitment and sacrifice."

"It is an honor to host the inaugural Military Appreciation Day in the historic House Chamber," said Speaker of the House Ronald Mariano. "This new tradition reflects our deep appreciation for the veterans, service members, and military families who strengthen every corner of our Commonwealth."

The keynote address was delivered by General Joseph F. Dunford, Jr. (Ret.), former Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and 36th Commandant of the U.S. Marine Corps. A Boston native and one of the most distinguished military leaders in recent history, General Dunford spoke about the legacy of service, leadership, and community and the importance of honoring those who serve across generations.

"It's an honor to return home to Massachusetts and stand alongside a community so deeply committed to those who serve. Military Appreciation Day reflects something I've long believed: that service is not just what we do in uniform — it's a lifetime of leadership, character, and sacrifice," said General Joseph F. Dunford, Jr. (Ret.), 19th Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. "I'm proud to join the Commonwealth in recognizing these remarkable individuals and the values they represent."

The program also featured a powerful performance of the National Anthem by Springfield native and NBC's The Voice finalist Michelle Brooks-Thompson. Following the ceremony, honorees and guests were invited to a lunch reception generously donated by the Military Friends Foundation, a Massachusetts nonprofit dedicated to providing support and emergency assistance to military families and families of the fallen.

"We Take Good Care of our Neighbors"

Dear Frankie

Summer Camp

Dear Frankie,

I wasn't sure I wanted to go to overnight camp for the summer, so my dad suggested I go for a trial weekend. I don't like being rushed. So, I was blown away when the camp counselor said we had thirty minutes for lunch, which involved lining up with a tray, deciding what to eat, which isn't easy for me, finding a place to sit, eating, and clearing my plate.

The food was so loathsome, I only ate the bread and the dessert. By late afternoon, I was dehydrated and had a headache from the lack of nutrition.

In art class, choosing materials for my collage took a while. No sooner had I started working than the teacher said it was time to clean up.

I told my dad the camp was clueless about healthy eating practices and an environment that supported creativity and was not for me.

I was so relieved that I wasn't going to camp, I didn't think about what that would mean for spending a summer at home. Turns out my friends are either at camp or on vacation, so I don't have anyone to play with. I also find watching TV and playing video games boring after a while.

I don't regret not going to camp, but being alone and bored stinks.

Tilly

Dear Tilly,

Your decision about camp was based on what you didn't want to do this summer. However, you didn't think about how you wanted to spend your summer at home and who would be around to spend it with you.

This is an example of when leaving summer activities up to the universe may not have been the best option.

You seemed interested in working on the art project at camp. How about signing up for a studio class where you can work at your own pace? You

No Kings protest draws close to 2,000 in the rain

By Beth David
Editor

A steady rain did not stop about 2,000 people from showing up to a "No Kings" protest on Saturday, 6/14/25, a day that also saw an assassination of a sitting state lawmaker in Minnesota and her husband; and the attempted assassination of another Minn. lawmaker and his wife.

The protest was part of a nationwide effort to shine a light on President Donald Trump's brutal tactics against immigrants, and disregard for the rule of law. The Trump administration has snatched people off the street without due process and sent them to detention centers, including a notoriously harsh prison in El Salvador, claiming they are all violent criminals. But most of the people taken have no criminal records and were taken as they traveled to and from their immigration appointments, which means they had authorization to be in the country and they were following the rules. Many have not had access to lawyers or court proceedings or told the charges against them.

Under the Trump administration, the Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) agents wear masks and do not identify themselves.

The administration has also ignored many court rulings against Trump's numerous power grabs.

Groups around the country have sprung up alongside established civil rights groups to stop the administration's brutal tactics of ripping people from their families, off the streets, and stripping them of their legal status for no reason or dubious reasons.

The president also ordered the National Guard to protests in Los Angeles against the wishes of the mayor and governor; and has ordered Marines to combat protesters on US soil in Los Angeles and other cities.

The constitution expressly prohibits the use of the military for police actions on US soil.

Saturday's protests were organized by a number of groups. In Fairhaven, the Town Democratic Committee took the lead and held the demonstration at Fairhaven High School, where they have been holding protests and visibilities during the past few months.

Signs on Saturday ran the gamut from funny to serious, to wordplays, to profanity: Deport the despot; No Crown for a Clown; Hate won't make America great; The Constitution is not a suggestion; Too much shit for one sign; Stop terrorizing children; Make American think again; No autocracy in our democracy; Liberty not monarchy; Rejecting kings since 1776.

Pat Parker of Freetown said she came to Fairhaven because Freetown did not have a protest. She wanted to stand up for people whose lives are being disrupted for no reason.

"We all have friends and neighbors who maybe were not born here, but this is their country," she said.

"I think Trump is awful," said Adam Oliveira of Dartmouth. "I like what this stands for: no kings. This is a place for people who want to stand against Trump and I really appreciate it."

"We got rid of the king," said Herb Foisy of Dartmouth. "There are no kings in America."

Vietnam Veteran, Paul Ducey of Fairhaven, wore a shirt that said "I'm a veteran, not a sucker or a loser," in reference to a statement Trump reportedly made about veterans who were killed in war.

Mr Ducey said Trump is "acting like a dictator."

"I went to war for my rights," he said. "I took an oath to the constitution that was written to get rid of the king of England."

Mr. Ducey said that Trump has been going after veterans because his

1390 finish 51st Fathers' Day Road Race

By Beth David
Editor

Organizers said that more than 1500 runners registered for the 51st Fathers' Day 5K Road Race on Sunday, 6/14/25, but 1390 actually showed up to run and finish the race according to RaceWire.com.

Will Benoit, 22, of Lowell, crossed the finish line first in 15:03, followed by Ryan O'Connell, 34, of New Bedford in 15:47, and Nicholas Hall, 24, of Boston in 16:29.

First woman over the line was Nora Blodget, 24, of Boston, in 18:14, followed by Naomi Cass, 21, of Westport in 18:21, and Madalyn Duarte, 17, of Dartmouth, in 19:23.

Youngest over the line was Cecelia Lheureux, under one year old pushed a long by her adult, Ryan Lheureux, in 27:40. Second youngest over the line was one-year-old Vienna Medeiros, pushed along by her adult, Andre Medeiros, in 21:27

The weather was cool, but dry, so emergency personnel said they were a little surprised that more than a few runners got sick and vomited after they crossed the finish line. Nothing life threatening, they just got some liquids and were sent on their way.

At the end of the race, top finishers received cash prizes and gift certificates. The top 50 dads also received gift cards.

Organizer, Carolyn Days Merrill, whose father, Allen Days, is the original founder of the race, said it was the first one he missed. He fell, she said, and is recovering, but he could not make it.

She quoted two statements makes often.

"Fairhaven is the place to be on Fathers' Day," she said. And, "Everybody is a winner who crosses the finish line."

family has no history of service, not himself, not his father, not his sons.

"He has a disrespect for veterans that we have never seen," he said.

Kelly Freitas of Rochester said she was there because she was feeling lonely among family members who still support Trump. She wanted to feel a sense of community with people who are like minded.

"I have a little spark back in me," she said, adding that she grew up Catholic and was taught to be kind, caring, and have empathy. "Not just if they look like you, not just if they are well off."

Several people asked that their names not be used because they were afraid of repercussions at work or with family.

"I'm here just to support the people with no voice," said one woman.

"We are very concerned," said David Schutt. "I have never seen anything like it and I'm in my seventies."

"We're fighting for the future of our children and grandchildren," said his wife, Sandy.

Organizer Ann Richard, of the Fairhaven Democratic Town Committee, said the turnout was "amazing." She compared crowd size to their last biggest turnout, which was 850. She said this one, with the lines stretching from Middle Street to the football field on both sides of Route 6, around the corners at Main Street, and several deep on the high school side, was easily twice as large.

She also said that lots of people left when the rain started, but then others showed up.

"We're very pleased with the turnout," she said. "It was very peaceful, with people dancing and having fun."

There was a DJ playing music, and a little speechmaking at the beginning, said Ms. Richard.

State Rep. Mark Sylvia, said his family members were worried after what happened in Minnesota. He said he went to talk to people, to hear their concerns on a number of issues.

"People are getting fed up and they should," said Judith Lavoie. "The numbers are growing."

Part of the discussion revolved around how the extra $155K would be spent. School Districts in Mass. have complete autonomy for spending. The SB can not dictate how they can spend the money the town appropriates to them.

Finance Committee member Peter Benoit said the School Department used COVID funds to "inflate their hiring," and FinCom told them three years ago this day would come.

When Moderator Les Dakin said Mr. Benoit should give others a chance to talk, he said "I will in a moment."

"You're beginning to arouse my competitive spirit," said Mr. Dakin.

Some speakers noted the raises that school department employees got, and the hefty salaries of administrators. Some complained about the opaque nature of the school budget, with the FinCom agreeing, saying it took years for them to get the level of detail they got this year. Others noted that the School District was warned for years that it was headed in the wrong direction.

Mr. Gaspar noted that there were a lot of concerned parents in the room, especially those with Special Education students.

He said they all see the brick wall coming: "if you don't you're blind. It's been a conversation for a long time."

He repeated his assertion that the town does not have a revenue problem, it has a spending problem. It is not just the school department, he said, it is the "mentality" with all departments.

"In today's society it just seems to be about me, me, me," said Mr. Gaspar. "And not about us, us, us."

One voter reminded town meeting that school committee members and selectboard members are elected.

"You can vote them out," he said.

The Planning Board budget also caused a bit of discussion. Mark Francois, the Planning Board chairperson, said the PB did not support the budget. He said they recommended level funding to retain their clerical position. The budget as proposed is a 38% reduction, and eliminates the clerical position entirely.

Mr. Francois advocated for putting the position back in, saying the department had a lot of work coming up for the master plan. He said there is the potential for grants, but they

my competitive spirit

take time.

He also noted that the best way to get more revenue for the town was through zoning changes that would allow for more commercial properties. Acushnet has not filled the Planner position he said, they share a planner with Mattapoisett.

SB Chairperson David Wojnar said the town has consolidated the clerical position with other departments so residents can go to one place for several departments.

He said too often the right hand does not know what the left hand is doing.

Mr. Francois said they are always saying they need more money, and "now you're going to cut the department that finds more money."

He said the part time planner will be wasting her time on "stupid emails" instead of finding money for the town.

"You guys are not seeing the forest through the trees," said Mr. Francois.

Mr. Wojnar painted a gloomy picture of the future, saying if they keep kicking the can down the road, everything will eventually be regionalized, not just planning.

Mr. Gaspar said he had spoken to Mr. Francois about the changes and promised him that if they did not work, they would change course.

After a bit of back and forth, Mr. Gaspar said, "I did not lie to you."

He noted it is the Selectboard that makes personnel decisions. If it backfires, they will figure out what to do.

"I made that promise to you," said Mr. Gaspar. "I never broke a promise to anyone in town."

"You've got 100 and some odd witnesses," said Mr. Francois.

"And they all just heard me loud and clear," said Mr. Gaspar.

TM also approved all other spending articles, such as Community Preservation Committee projects, including $60K to relocate historic memorials at the Russell Library. Spending for capital items, included two police cruisers ($150K), $45K for a used maintenance truck, $40K for HVAC repairs to the senior center; and $80K for a new compressor for filling SCBA bottles for the fire department.

TM also passed the three zoning bylaws.

An amendment from Ryan Rezendes on the Solar Array article also passed, despite the objection of Mr. Francois. The change included security fencing to the setbacks from roads. Mr. Francois said any changes should be carefully made and include hearings.

Acushnet Lions Club holds annual duck race

By Beth David
Editor

The Acushnet Lions Club held its annual duck race on Sunday, 6/15/25, sending 1,000 rubber ducks into the Acushnet River to race in the current to the finish line.

This year, the race started just across from the River's End Cafe, giving the ducks a swift current right from the start. Both human spectators and curious live ducks watched as the rubber ducks made their way under the road towards the harbor.

In the water, two Lions Club members kept an eye on the booms that corralled the ducks into the opening.

First duck through the shute was #518 for the win by Joanne Herenko; Karen Costello's duck came in second; and John Golda got the third spot. Prizes were $1,000, $500, and $200. Members of the public could "adopt" a duck for $10 for a chance to win.

All proceeds benefit Acushnet Lions Club charities. To learn more about their fund-raisers. Call Joe Costa, 774-849-2028, to learn about their fund-raisers and how you can volunteer.

The Budget Busting Bill

More provisions of the BBB (Budget Busting Bill) include an automatic increase to the debt limit, $50.6B for border security including $2B for bonuses, no tax on tips or overtime and no fines for contempt for defying court orders. Student loans will no longer be granted.

By mid-July the debt ceiling will be reached if this bill does not pass. We have full employment and low taxes now, normally we try to decrease borrowing, but this bill eliminates that process and hides the true extent of our debt. This in turn makes foreign bond buyers wary and increases interest rates for all borrowers, home and car buyers, and is estimated to take up 20% of our government spending.

The large increase in border security is for extending the border wall, more personnel and a high of $40K bonuses for existing staff. While Medicaid and SNAP benefits are greatly reduced, employees carrying out this admin's policies will greatly benefit.

The provision to not tax tips or overtime is set to expire in 2028. The temporary regulation to not tax overtime will cause employers to purchase new software or lots of time to break out these wages.

The last provision of no contempt fines was slipped in at the last minute. This regulation provides that entities or individuals must post a bond when seeking to stop or appeal an order.

This bond is kept by the court if the order is not followed. This provision was added to make sure the courts have no power, thereby eliminating this check and balance.

The loss of student loans will cause a larger shortage of medical and dental personnel and discourage too many students from seeking an education. I believe this is the Project 2025 to create a permanent underclass. Taken together this BBB will allow excess power grabs from this admin, take away health insurance and food benefits from millions and increase our debt to levels that will call for US bankruptcy or the elimination of the dollar as the worldwide currency.

Winners Never Quit

Growing up, athletics was my passion. All sports were attractive and fine with me; both as a spectator or participant. As a player or participant, my mother, was always my biggest and most loyal fan. There was one funny story and a profound lesson to go with it that I'll never forget. It was during my first attempt at running a half marathon in New Bedford, Massachusetts some forty-five years ago.

Not really prepared by training, pacing, strategy, or in knowledge of proper equipment, I naively set out over the city-wide course with a bunch of other runners on a very cool and blustery day in March. When my mother got there to root me on, she positioned herself at the finish line. Later, she told me she thought she arrived too late and that I must have won. Why? Because old women and children were crossing the finish line and she hadn't seen any sign of me.

Well, for miles her "champion" was agonizing with side pains and trudging along with what seemed like hundred pound feet. Only one thought rattled in my mind — Don't quit. Praise the Lord, although people finished telescope distance ahead of me, I finally made it alive without stopping or quitting. So where is the profound lesson?

From a real runner's standpoint, one way to assess my performance (with old women and children whipping me) was that I was a dismal failure. For me, it was more than that. I won because I didn't quit and that is the point of this story.

Scripture says that God is love and His kind of love never fails. Not only that, He's perfect, everlasting and without beginning or end. That means He doesn't or can't quit either. In this letter, may we take a look at the advantage that comes with an honest relationship with this awesome God that those who believe...call Father.

In a far more significant way, as we run our race over the course of life in days to come, we need God's never failing, never quitting Holy Spirit to assist us in overcoming the stitches and heavy feet of personal challenges. When we run with and for

Almighty God, we win, and life's regrets will never overtake our dreams.

Friends, remember, before you put on your running shoes, look up and know that with Him in your nature, you may fail here and there, but quitting isn't in you.

A reversal of the tide

Attending the Fairhaven rally this last Saturday, where an estimated one thousand people stood, in the rain, protesting Trump's agenda, was energizing and provided a ray of hope for maintaining democracy.

The past week, culminating in a military parade, several events have provided hope that the march to an autocracy may be halted or hopefully reversed.

Most significantly the major news media, excepting Fox, did not cover Trump's birthday-military parade in its entirety. The air waves, internet images and commentary were focused on the hundreds of protests occurring nationwide and in several foreign countries. No doubt Trump envisaged a full day of celebration and national excitement providing him the opportunity to crow about the biggest most beautiful parade in American history.

The enormity and peacefulness of the protests was historically unparalleled and clearly indicating that there is a groundswell of opposition to Trump's monarchal aspirations.

The audacity of a once loyal ally to commence attacking Iran on the eve of Trump's parade is indicative of lessened respect and fear.

Even if Netanyahu informed him of his intention the timing had to have infuriated Trump. And more importantly it has placed Trump in a precarious position with many MAGA supporters who are isolationists or staunchly pro Israel. Whatever stance he may take will alienate large segments of his constituencies.

The accusation that Trump backs down on his assaultive executive orders has proven accurate once again as he exempts certain undocumented workers from deportation. The TACO (Trump Always Chickens Out) moniker is gaining traction everywhere and subjecting Trump to disrespect and humiliation. The ego deflation is very apparent.

Trump's verbal attack on Leonard Leo, the Federalist Society leader, may very well alienate several Supreme Court Justices who have empowered Trump in his quest for absolute power.

Cumulatively, these events may be the cooling of the Trumpian fever that has taken hold in this country.

Lying by Omission – Readers Deserve the Truth.

Residents of Fairhaven, I am offering you back two paragraphs from the Fairhaven Neighborhood News (6/12/25). The first being part of a biased opinion in the editorial. And the second as part of a paraphrased article, on last week's important Select Board meeting, held on 6/9.

Paraphrasing and lying by omission, can change the entire context of what is really being said. Readers need the Truth.

I challenge all residents of Fairhaven who read the FNN, to see the SB meeting video of 6/9/2025 on fairhaventv.com

Please note, as it appears, these two paragraphs work hand in hand. And notice jiggled up paraphrasing in the SB article, that contextually works towards biased opinions, not all the facts.

Writing an editorial with flagrant opinions is one thing, lying by omission is another.

1/Editorial: The Select Board had to listen to a whole lot of bullshit this week. Geesh. People just cannot take no for an answer. Give it up, people. There are lots of reasons why the board can choose a person to be on a committee or board.

2/FHVN Select Board Article: Erin Carr, Cathy Melanson, Patrick Carr,

Derek Furtado, and Michelle Costen, all complained about Mr. Sullivan's appointment, saying the board should have chosen one of the more experienced applicants.

The writer completely omitted the truth of what I said, which is crucial for readers/residents to understand. The writer made it sound like we were all just a bunch of worthless complainers, instead of public citizens truly concerned about our zoning permitting process, by voting in a candidate with zero skills on the ZBA board. ZERO, as I said in the meeting.

The Selectboard has a duty to ensure skill in our planning/ZBA boards.

In the 1st paragraph above, the writer expounds, There are lots of reasons why the board can choose a person to be on a committee or board. Skill should be #1, agree?

We had two more experienced SB board members that the writer did not mention either. SB Chair, Murphy, and Mr. Silvia, who both voted no for Mr. Sullivan. Mr. Sullivan did not even have transferable skills to offer the ZBA board.

Another fact omitted from this important article for residents to know about. Mr. Saunders spoke at the end of this meeting. Mr. Saunders conveyed that he did not know there were ZBA associates with notable transferable ZBA skills, and who were never told about a selection being made for a ZBA board member.

Mr. Saunders may have voted NO, had he known we had ZBA associates with transferable ZBA skills, whereas Mr. Sullivan had Zero planning/ZBA experience.

Mr. Saunders is also a more experienced board SB member and could have been the tie breaker of a 3 to 5 vote. A vote unskillfully motioned by a newly elected member.

Residents can read the article/watch the video. Truth Speaks for Itself

Maybe it is time reporter retires.
